

Women in Cardiology Committee

1 Candidate – Elected Unopposed

Gauri Nepali

Nominations:

Amir Aziz

Ashok Tahilyani

Supporting Statement:

I am writing to express my interest in becoming a member of the Women in Medicine Committee. As a professional who has recently transitioned from pediatric training to a pediatric cardiology training program, my career journey has not only fueled my passion for healthcare but has also opened my eyes to the unique challenges and disparities women face in cardiology.

Despite the strides made towards gender equality, the cardiology sector, much like many other medical fields, remains an environment where women often encounter significant obstacles. These range from implicit biases and a lack of representation in leadership roles to the struggle for work-life balance amidst demanding professional commitments.

Throughout my career, from pediatric training to a pediatric cardiology training program, I have been deeply committed to advancing my clinical knowledge and enhancing the educational landscape for my colleagues. This commitment has been exemplified through my consistent involvement in organizing teaching programs and advocacy initiatives in every role I have undertaken.

One of my core beliefs is that continuous learning and professional development are fundamental to the advancement of women in the medical field. In every job I have held, I have taken the initiative to organize teaching programs and seminars.

Bringing this wealth of experience to the Women in Medicine Committee, I am eager to contribute my insights and leadership in developing comprehensive educational and advocacy programs. I am particularly passionate about creating initiatives that support women in cardiology and pediatric cardiology, ensuring they have access to the resources and networks necessary for their professional growth and success.

British Cardiovascular Society

'The Voice of UK Cardiology'

I am excited about the possibility of collaborating with the committee to champion the advancement of women in medicine through targeted educational initiatives. Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to the opportunity to discuss further how my experience in organizing teaching and advocacy programs can contribute to the committee's goals and support women in our field to thrive.